

National Elder Mediation Network

Mission Statement

The purpose of the National Elder Mediation Network is to bring together an experienced, concerned, multi-disciplinary group, to collaborate in defining, developing and supporting high-quality mediation, facilitation, and related elder services.

The Network's mission is to provide national leadership -- through development and advancement of model policies, ethical standards, best-practice guidelines, and training -- to establish a continuum of high-quality decision-making, planning and conflict resolution services that give voice to older persons, enhance communication, and strengthen relationships among elders, their families and the elder care community, while also promoting autonomy, independence and quality of life for the nation's elders.
