Issue : Cross Motions to Modify Child Support

Facts: Parties divorced 2003 DBD FA 01-0344187 Jmt of Diss 1-17-03

Order was 192 cs for 2 children 105/wk alimony through 1-17-08 App asys father has now changed jobs and children no longer on his health insurance App put children on Husky B for last 4 years . App talked to SES worker recently to ask if child support can be modified (increased) SES told her file motion, fill out fin aff , we'll get fin aff from husband and run guidelines SES then told her from guidelines it liked like an increase was not in order, but that presumptive amt now is LOWER than offer now in effect Ex - h has now filed cross-motion to modify downward. Court date is 4-23-08 App thinks father is hiding income and assets.

Advice: she is now in position of both prosecuting own motion and defending against his. ADV crucial she go to court; have any and all hard evidence she can have of father's income and assets. ADV case may not be resolved on one court date; may be continued for father to produce info ordered by court. Told app parties do have obligation to be truthful, but people do not always tell truth. She knows that only too well. ADV we cannot provide rep due to priorities; gave # of LRS. ADV atty can conduct discovery and request father to produce certain info and documents by court date. That may be advantage, she and atty can go into court on hrg date with evidence of father's non-cooperation. Send Disclosure, Mod CS, Contempt
