How Civil Legal Aid Helps
The Opioid Crisis Affects Millions of People

- Individuals
  People with a Substance Use Disorder

- Families
  Family members, including parents and children, of someone with a Substance Use Disorder

- Communities
  Entire communities impacted when great swathes of community members’ lives are destabilized – including economically and socially
The Opioid Crisis Affects Millions of People

➤ Individuals and Families
  - More than 11 million are affected by the opioid crisis
  - More than 2 million have a Substance Use Disorder

➤ Communities
  - The economic burden is estimated to be $504 billion
  - $28.9 billion in health care costs
Civil Legal Aid Helps Those Affected

Help individuals enter and remain in recovery
- SAMHSA’s evidence-based areas that are crucial to managing life in recovery
  - Health, Home, Purpose, Community
- Secure safety
  - From homelessness, human trafficking, domestic violence
- Stabilize income, housing, health care
  - Access to benefits and housing assistance
  - Remove barriers to employment and housing, including mitigating criminal records and advocating for people to stay on medication assisted treatment (MAT)

Stabilize Families and Communities
- Child support, custody, guardianship, adoption, foster care
  - Including financial resources to support children, and secure medical care and other benefits
  - Help address children’s medical, behavioral, and social needs
Civil Legal Aid Helps Those Affected

- Collaborations that include civil legal aid
  - Medical-legal partnerships
    - Partnerships with health care partners help people enter and remain in recovery
    - National Center for Medical-Legal Partnership brief “The Opioid Crisis in America & The Role Medical-Legal Partnership Can Play”
  - Partnerships with courts and bar associations
    - The top two referrals to treatment are the health care system and the courts
    - Help address guardianship, custody, child behavioral needs, etc.
    - National Judicial Opioid Task Force (Conference of Chief Justices and Conference of State Court Administrators)
  - Collaborations with community partners

What does your state government leadership say about the opioid epidemic?

“It is more critical than ever that we bring together every group that has a stake in the opioid crisis to combat what we now know is one of the most deadly health issues our state and country have faced in a generation.”

South Carolina Governor McMaster announces 2017 SC Governor’s Opioid Summit

“As this crisis evolves and grows, so must our response to it. This crisis is more than just a health crisis; it is tearing apart families and communities from one end of the nation to the other.”

Maryland Governor Hogan asks Congress for more federal funding to fight the opioid crisis
States should use evidence-based practices

Legal aid helps with child support, custody, adoption, and guardianship when parents are unable to care for their children:

- When parents have periods of intense drug use, children may not be properly fed, clothed, or cared for.
- Children of addicted parents experienced dramatically increased medical, behavioral, and psychological issues.
- In states with the highest number of opioid-related overdose deaths, the child welfare systems are seeing increases in children being removed from their parents’ care.

States should use evidence-based practices

Legal aid can help reduce burdens on the child welfare and health care system, improve health, and reduce stress:

• When parents, including those with a Substance Use Disorder (SUD), have legal representation, children exited foster care at a rate 11 percent higher than unrepresented parents. Representation almost doubled the speed to adoption and doubled the speed to legal guardianship.

• Representation leads to cost savings for foster parents, subsidies for children’s medical care, cash benefits, and the expense of monitoring the foster family.

• Patients receiving legal services reported reduced stress levels and improved health.

• When civil legal needs were addressed, inpatient and emergency department use dropped 50 percent and health care costs decreased 45 percent.

• When parents have access to legal services, child health and access to food and income supports improved.

“[States] may wish to develop and support partnerships and programs to help address social determinants of health and advance overall health equity. For instance, some organizations have established medical-legal partnerships to assist persons with mental and substance use disorders in meeting their housing, employment, and education needs.”

FY 2018 – 2019 Block Grant application

• State-by-state information about SAMHSA grant awards:
  https://www.samhsa.gov/grants-awards-by-state

• Individual grant awards:
  https://www.samhsa.gov/grants/awards/2017/TI-17-014
PURPOSE

“The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) is accepting applications for fiscal year (FY) 2018 State Opioid Response Grants (Short Title: SOR). The program aims to address the opioid crisis by increasing access to medication-assisted treatment using the three FDA-approved medications for the treatment of opioid use disorder, reducing unmet treatment need, and reducing opioid overdose related deaths through the provision of prevention, treatment and recovery activities for opioid use disorder (OUD) (including prescription opioids, heroin and illicit fentanyl and fentanyl analogs).”

EXPECTATIONS

“Grantees will develop and provide opioid misuse prevention, treatment, and recovery support services for the purposes of addressing the opioid abuse and overdose crisis within the states. This service array should be based on needs identified in the State’s State Targeted Response (STR) strategic plan.

...grantees will be required to employ effective prevention and recovery support services to ensure that individuals are receiving a comprehensive array of services across the spectrum of prevention, treatment, and recovery.”

“In the FY 2019 AmeriCorps competition, CNCS seeks to prioritize the investment of national service resources in:

• Healthy Futures - reducing and/or preventing prescription drug and opioid abuse.”

Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) Victim Assistance Formula Grant Program – DOJ OVC

- State administered victim assistance grants are to be used for direct services “that (1) respond to the emotional, psychological, or physical needs of crime victims, (2) help victims of crime to stabilize their lives after a victimization, (3) help victims to understand and participate in the criminal justice system, and (4) restore a measure of security and safety for the victim.”

- DOJ OVC 2016 VOCA Assistance rule clarified that state VOCA administrators have the freedom and flexibility to use their funds for “expanded forms of legal assistance,” including child abuse:
  - “OVC adds a new definition of the statutory term ‘victims of child abuse’ to make clear OVC’s existing flexible approach of allowing States to address a broad variety of harm to children.”

Helpful hint #1: Your state saw increased VOCA funding

• Because of fluctuations in annual CVF deposits of federal criminal fines and penalties, in 2000, Congress began “capping” annual CVF obligations

• In 2015, they raised the cap and VOCA funding increased - significantly

• Find your state’s allocations:
  http://www.navaa.org/budget/18/VOCA%20Victim%20Assistant%20Grants.pdf
Helpful hint #2: Find state-by-state VOCA grant-making information

1. Go to the DOJ OVC’s map and click on your state: https://www.ovc.gov/map.html

2. See your state’s VOCA Victim Assistance report on this tab

Lawyer in the School: A Civil Legal Project Serving Opioid Impacted Families

Seeking Justice, Changing Lives

LEGAL AID OF WEST VIRGINIA
The Lawyer in the School Crime Victims’ Project: An Overview

- Our goal: stabilize kinship caregiver families with civil legal support.

- Our model: school based holistic legal services with pro bono support (based on successful pilot project without opioid focus).

- Our services: civil legal help for kinship families navigating permanency options, public benefits, housing, employment, and access to childcare.
Why an opioid impacted kinship families project?:

- Our Needs Assessment: Nine 2016 community meetings held statewide with “thought leaders” on poverty overwhelmingly identified the epidemic at the center of our client’s legal needs.

- Our Strategic Plan: Prioritized civil legal work to positively impact our clients impacted by the crises.

- The imperative of the epidemic: Touches every LAWV local office, and our own families, schools, and communities. A defining issue for legal services in Appalachia.
Why an opioid impacted kinship families project?:

- Existing partnerships: we saw these families in our partnership with WV DHHR to serve TANF recipient clients. By 2017, 71% of WV’s TANF caseload was “child only” -- due mainly to the opioid crises.

- New partnerships: The West Virginia Healthy Grandfamilies Project approached us to request legal training and help for their participants.

- Changing service demographics: Lawyer in the School original pilot project designed as LSC pro bono innovation grant but was serving mainly kinship families.
Launching a project for opioid impacted kinship families – identify funding:

- VOCA and other federal funds. Consult with Karen Lash and the staff at NLADA. Other federal funding is listed in “Federal Resources for Rural Communities to Help Address Substance Use Disorder and Opioid Misuse” at

- State funds: Look at funds administered by your Department of Health and Human Resources and Department of Education (for school based projects).

- Foundation funds: Some foundations are unwilling to fund civil legal services to those with Substance Use Disorder, but will fund kinship work for relatives raising kids.
Launching a project for opioid impacted kinship families – identify referral partners and a project site:

- Connecting with kinship clients is critical to the project.
- Kinship families can be difficult to reach due to cultural/generational factors.
- School based projects work well due to staff referrals and drop-ins – see our LAWV launch guide.
- Law firms enjoy helping with school based clinics for these families – adds pro bono element.
- School district and individual school buy-in is critical.
Launching a project for opioid impacted kinship families – find data to support the project application:

- State Child Protective Services investigations data, especially information on the number of substantiated cases involving SUD.

- State level statistics on the number of children in foster care and how many estimated due to SUD.

- State Kids Count child abuse statistics by county and kinship care statistics by county if available.

- CDC neonatal abstinence syndrome statistics by state and county.

- U.S. Census data by state and county on the number of Grandparents responsible for kids living with them.
Launching a project for opioid impacted kinship families – determine staffing and costs for the project:

- LAWV as subgrantee on Marshall University school-based counseling services DOJ OVC opioid grant. DOJ OVC grant funds most of 1 attorney’s salary and benefits. LAWV covers transportation, training, technology: $75,600/ year or $226,800 for 3 years.

- LAWV as grantee for Marion County Lawyer in the School DOJ OVC opioid grant. DOJ OVC grant funds most of 1 attorney, 1 paralegal, and required 50% FTE Project Coordinator. LAWV covers 15% of attorney and paralegal salary and 50% of Coordinator salary. DOJ OVC covers mileage, training, technology. $183,252/ year or $549,726 for 3 years.

- DOJ OVC opioid grant requires grantee to coordinate with other community actors such as CPS, law enforcement, counseling services, schools, and victims’ services’ groups.
Next on the horizon for LAWV in responding to the opioid epidemic’s impact on our clients:

• Several LSC funded programs have already developed Medical Legal Partnerships with substance use disorder treatment centers.

• We are looking at funding administered by our DHHR and from federal sources to support a medical legal partnership with a treatment provider. Project will focus on disability discrimination against clients in recovery using Medication Assisted Treatment.
