ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Commit to equal justice by joining NLADA's
Corporate Advisory Committee.

The Corporate Advisory Committee (CAC) of the National Legal Aid & Defender Association (NLADA) facilitates greater pro bono support for legal aid and public defender programs across the country.

CAC members engage meaningfully with NLADA in formulating national strategies to generate public support for federal funding of legal services, develop innovative private-private partnerships, and bolster resource development initiatives.

The CAC was founded in 1992 by Jack Martin, then Vice President and General Counsel of Ford Motor Company. It institutionalizes corporate America's dedication to the principle of equal justice under the law and explores the ways in which the corporate sector can help ensure the availability of representation to those who cannot otherwise afford counsel.

John F. Schultz

Executive Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary

"NLADA's Corporate Advisory Committee (CAC) is a powerful vehicle for some of America's most gifted private sector lawyers to share their insights and expertise with NLADA and its members. CAC members have the opportunity to collaborate on bold ideas and leverage both human and financial resources to promote access to justice. The work is rewarding, the people are great and the mission is vital."

Kenneth C. Frazier

"NLADA plays a vital role in providing access to justice. Serving on the CAC is one of the best ways I know for general counsel to become personally involved in this mission and to help support and direct NLADA's efforts."

Bruce N. Kuhlik

former Executive Vice President and General Counsel
MERCK & CO., INC.

"Serving on the CAC has been a terrific opportunity for me, not only to support NLADA, but also to provide input on its strategy and to interact with my colleagues in the corporate legal community. Through the CAC, I have become both more informed and more engaged on critical matters relating to the provision of legal services to those most in need and on the ways in which corporate legal departments can contribute to solving this pressing societal concern."

Catherine A. Lamboley

retired Senior Vice President and General Counsel
