

Remote Bidding

Thank you for taking part in NLADA's first Social Justice Art Auction in conjunction with our Annual Exemplar Dinner on June 12, 2019. Below you will find the procedures for bidding remotely on the day of the auction and payment procedures for the lucky individuals that make the winning bids and get to take home one of our many wonderful pieces of donated art.

On the evening of the art auction, we will have specific staffers assigned to monitor the pieces of art in question and submit your bids on the auction sheets throughout the evening based on your bidding guidelines.

To bid remotely, please email this completed form to Kate Denman at k.denman@nlada.org by June 11, 2019:

Your name _____

Your phone number _____

Your email address _____

Your mailing address _____

Name of pieces you are bidding on and artist's name _____

By what increments to you want to increase you bid? (i.e. $10, $20 or $50 with each consecutive bid) _____

What is your ceiling? (i.e. the dollar amount you are not willing to go over) _____

Your signature committing that if you are the highest bidder, you will make payment via credit card on NLADA's secure payment portal no later than noon ET on June 13.

If you are interested in more than one piece, you must fill out a new form for each piece of art you are bidding on.

If you are the winning bidder, one of NLADA's development staff will reach out with the good news that evening. We will then coordinate payment and confirm the details for pickup or shipping of the artwork. Please note that bidders will be responsible for the basic shipping costs.
